

Memo

To: Doctors and Back Office Staff
From: Jung and Pielop
Date: 4/1/20
Re: Attire during COVID-19

To help prevent as much viral exposure as possible, we ask that doctors and staff refrain from wearing their lab coats and/or fleece jackets, bracelets/watches and ties. If you need to wear a jacket, then your sleeves should be rolled up to your elbows so that you are bare from the elbows down. This will ensure that you are able to properly clean your hands and reduce the amount of germs transferred between patients.

Dr. Jung has posted an article in regards to this on the COVID-19 Facebook page. Supervisors can pull up Facebook and allow staff to read the article.